

Napier Park Global Capital Named 2015 Hedge Fund Manager of the Year by Risk Magazine

New York, NY – January 13, 2015 – Napier Park Global Capital, a global alternative asset management firm, announced today that it has been named 2015 Hedge Fund Manager of the Year by Risk magazine. The award is in recognition of Napier Park’s investment approach in credit-intensive and structured assets, and a business structure where the bulk of its investor capital is longer-dated, which is appropriate for the less liquid nature of the assets in which it invests.

“We could not be more pleased to have been recognized by Risk for our accomplishments over the past year,” stated Jim O’Brien, senior managing partner of Napier Park Global Capital. “Our core strength is our ability to understand complex, highly structured credit-intensive assets and to then correctly match those assets with the appropriate fund structure and financing. The structure of our funds can enable us, at times, to increase risk when many funds are selling.”

“Through the long-dated nature of our capital, the limited use of borrowed money and a fundamental research-driven investment process, we have been able to generate attractive risk-adjusted returns for our large institutional clients,” said Jon Dorfman, senior managing partner and chief investment officer. “This is especially important in today’s post-financial crisis environment where the regulatory framework has put an end to the sort of liquidity that was historically provided in credit markets.”

Napier Park manages strategies across U.S. and European corporate credit, U.S mortgages, distressed debt, U.S. municipal securities and event-driven equity markets, as well as in a multi-strategy format.
